

Week's special debriefing meeting of the successful Greg Laurie Harvest at Vector Arena that the event's momentum must be maintained.

And to help achieve this, a working group was elected at the meeting, which was held at Auckland's LIFE Central. The group will meet after September 1 to determine the future.

Chairman of the debriefing, Graeme Lee, said everyone present were of one heart in considering the event as just the beginning. "Twenty people have offered to be the working group. Their role will be to consider the outreach ideas already put forward for the future, to pray, and to confer with other leaders etc," said Mr Lee.

Mr Lee said highlights of the meeting included the ed the event in a remarkable way. The professions of faith were approximately 3400, when event responses, website, overflow and G3 Swat team's street witnessing were added together. When the launch rallies are added the total was over 3800," said Mr Lee.

Other highlights were the stories of lives being transformed, with pastors talking about 30 to 40 responses each from the event.

The final financial position was presented to the meeting by treasurer, Denis Smith and Hans Wouters. The bottom line was a deficit of $20,500 (Budget was $705,000) and it was now important said Mr Lee to raise that amount (part of the payment owing to Harvest United States). "Any gift would be welcomed," he said. ■

Mansell Senior School, and, since late last year, Papakura High School.

"I'm at three of the schools every week, so I do my best" said Mrs Fox adding that there is vital need for more Christians to get involved.

"I need a Christian team leader in charge at each school each day. They must have a personal relationship guess God does".

"I love the children and I love what I'm doing, but I do it primarily because God wants me to do it. When you step out to do God's work there are a lot of backs aimed at you. He's my back up, I do it for him," she said.

The club has encountered some criticism from people who feel that it is the par-who are involved in this project is 'amazing'. For example, from the teachers' point of view, there is a real difference in the behavioral standards of the children, and even a change in the academic levels," she explains.

"What I see is that we're now like a big family. They've really opened up. They were reserved at the beginning, but

Angels Light gives every child at least one Weet-Bix, so they get fibre and milk. It also supplies wheatmeal toast and a big pot of hot cocoa. The programme costs $40,000. The Angels Light club is run entirely on donations and sponsorships. The major sponsor for the past two years has been The Presbyterian Foundation. ■

Sponsors sought for Christchurch PKs

Promise Keepers is encouraging men from the rest of New Zealand to show their support for Christchurch by sponsoring a man to the Promise Keepers event in Christchurch, to be held at La Vida Centre, Upper Riccarton, on August 12 and 13. Promise Keepers believes that by sponsoring men to attend the event, people "can stand shoulder-to-shoulder with the men of Christchurch and provide them with a chance to attend this annual event free of charge. There are many men in Christchurch who are unemployed and facing huge costs as a result of the earthquakes".

Paul Subritzky, national director of Promise Keepers (NZ), said, "Because of the earthquakes, event numbers may well be lower in Christchurch this year, but numbers have never been our motivation for holding our events. This is a time that the men of Christchurch need us the most and they need to know that we are not going to abandon them in their time of need ... We do not want to call the men of Christchurch to further sacrifice, but to give them the opportunity to be blessed."
